JAM Star for Oliver Hahr

Founder of oha communication honored by
Junior Chamber for outstanding PR work

Stuttgart (Germany), November 16, 2009 – Oliver Hahr, director of the PR agency oha communication in Stuttgart, has been awarded for his continuous and engaged development of press work for the Junior Chamber in Stuttgart (Wirtschaftsjunioren Stuttgart e.V.). JAM Star is the highest award of the association on state level. It dignifies exceptionally active members who do not hold a special position in the organization.

“The Junior Chamber in Stuttgart has many interesting projects and events”, explains prizewinner Oliver Hahr. “By supporting these with pr activities on a regular basis we want to show what the members do for their region and also intensify the dialog with selected publics. That is not only interesting, but also fun. Particularly, when, at well attended events, you see the result of the work.”

JAM Star honors exceedingly active members “in second row” who are not president or member of the managing board. “With this prize we want to honor the voluntary work of our members”, says Till Burgsmüller, President of the Junior Chamber in Stuttgart. „We really appreciate Oliver’s work and support. That’s what we wanted to express with this JAM Star.”

The Junior Chamber in Germany (Wirtschaftsjunioren Deutschland) brings together more than 10,000 active members from all areas of the economy. It forms the largest association of young entrepreneurs and business leaders under the age of 40. Since 1958, the Junior Chamber in Germany is also member of the Junior Chamber International with more than 100 national associations worldwide.
